RCE Saskatchewan is a United Nations University designated Regional Centre of Expertise (RCE) on Education for Sustainable Development (ESD). Each of the 150+ RCEs around the world is a network of individuals, organizations and experts who are committed to using education as a tool for building a sustainable future. UNU currently has 175 RCEs listed globally. Please click on the links below to find out more about specific RCEs.

We are privileged to enjoy the patronage of His Honour the Honourable Russ Mirasty, Lieutenant Governor of Saskatchewan. <http://ltgov.sk.ca/the-lieutenant-governor/lieutenant-governor-russ-mir...>

The Regional Centre of Expertise on Education for Sustainable Development in Saskatchewan (RCE Saskatchewan) seeks to transform education for sustainability in our region. Education is broadly understood to include formal education (such as primary, secondary, and post-secondary education) as well as informal and non-formal education (such as the private media and public education by non-governmental organizations). A Framework for Environmental Learning and Sustainability in Canada defines the three types of education as follows:

Formal Education: Education through the school systems from kindergarten to the end of high school as well as some aspects in colleges and universities.

Non-formal Education: Public awareness activities by organizations outside of the school system (e.g., Environmental Street Theatre).

Informal Education: Educational activities provided by media (e.g., documentaries on radio and television)
